Maths

This week, we have been comparing numbers and counting objects to 100. We have also learnt how to solve missing part whole models and practised partitioning numbers in different ways. Next week, we will begin our addition topic by adding ones and tens from any given number

Foundation subjects.

In ICT, we started our topic by looking at the meaning of information technology and identifying if objects contain a computer inside such as a washing machine.

In Art, this week we have been looking at 1666 architecture and created a continuous line drawing. We then transferred our drawings onto polystyrene tiles and used them to create a repeated printed pattern. In History, we finally got to set fire to our models of 1666 houses .
