

Special Educational Needs (SEN) is a legal term. It describes the needs of a child who has difficulty or disability which makes learning harder for them than for other children of their age.*

SEND Code of Practice (2015) identifies four broad areas of need:

- communication and interaction*
- cognition and learning*
- social, emotional and mental health difficulties*
- sensory and/or physical needs.*

Slough's Special Educational Needs and Disability Information, Advice and Support Service (SENDIASS) is a free, impartial and confidential service that provides information, advice and support to children and young people (up to the age of 25) with SEND, and their parents and carers.

We provide information, advice and support on:

- all aspects of SEND, from initial concerns and identification through to ongoing support and provision
- the law on SEND, health and social care
- Slough's local policy and practice
- personalisation and personal budgets
- resolving disagreements and mediation
- the Local Offer.

How we do this

- Signpost you to other sources of information or advice.
- Help you find, understand and interpret relevant information.
- Support you to make your own decisions.
- Attend meetings with you, support with letters.
- Provide information about mediation.
- Ensure your views are heard and can influence local policies.

What sort of situations can we help you with?

- Supporting a child, young person or their parents following a diagnosis of SEND.
- Requesting an education, health and care assessment.
- Supporting you to work in partnership with your educational setting, Slough SEND service and other services.
- Providing support around exclusions.
- Helping to find a suitable education place, including school visits.
- Supporting in SEND appeal processes such as transport, school placement or plans.

How we work?

- Slough's SEND Information, Advice and Support Service has a friendly team of fully trained staff who are experienced in supporting children, and young people with SEND, and their parents and carers.
- The service provided is confidential and impartial. This means any personal information you give us will only be shared if we have your consent.
- The service is provided independently by Slough Borough Council and works in partnership with the local parent/carers group. This ensures the information, advice and support given is impartial.
